Angus Fire is offering to buy Homes adjacent their Polluted Site

"It is imperative that residents take proper legal advice before signing any agreement with Angus. We are concerned that any settlement agreement relating to a property purchase may also seek to prevent those residents from any further recourse to Angus should other loss or damage become apparent. For example, if those residents later became unwell from PFAS related illnesses, they should be able to seek recompense from Angus regardless of whether Angus has bought their house or not.

If Angus is requiring a settlement agreement to be signed as a condition of purchase, they should pay for the resident to take legal advice on that agreement and what it means."
